SaaS Protection

Note:

Not many businesses are away that most cloud providers are not responsible for keeping your data long term. Not responsible for turning back time to restore data and not responsible to keeping your data when you delete it.

They all operated a "shared responsibility model" in which they are responsible for ensuring the service is available and your current data is available against the Service Level Agreements.

It is important to ensure you backup your data, retain your data and ensure you can restore it.
This solution offers 1 year data retention and unlimited data retention schedules (you can specify 1 year+ - unlimited years)
